

New Patents volume added to the Getting The Deal Through series

Global Competition Review is pleased to announce the publication of Getting The Deal Through: Patents 2004, a new addition to the Getting The Deal Through series. It will be launched at the 126th Annual Meeting of The International Trademark Association in Atlanta, Georgia, USA (1st- 5th May, 2004). The publication addresses the key concerns of corporations and their counsel when navigating international patent rights. A universal questionnaire, devised in collaboration with Charles Brainard and Stuart J. Sinder of Kenyon & Kenyon, was completed by leading lawyers from each participating jurisdiction.

The book covers 23 jurisdictions worldwide and addresses areas such as patent enforcement proceedings (including timetabling and antitrust considerations), scope and ownership of patents, defences, remedies, licensing and patent office proceedings. The publication also includes a global overview by Stuart J. Sinder providing an insight into the general trends in international patents law.

Authors from leading firms in each jurisdiction were selected following recommendations from the contributing editors and reference to the independent research carried out by Who's Who Legal, The International Who's Who of Business Lawyers.

The Getting The Deal Through series is designed to help general counsel, government agencies and private practice lawyers successfully navigate increasingly complex regulation around the world. The series covers 15 practice areas, including Merger Control, Cartel Regulation, Mergers & Acquisitions and Private Antitrust Litigation.

Further information is available on www.GlobalCompetitionReview.com and www.GettingTheDealThrough.com.

-ENDS -

9 February 2004

Note to editors:

- The Getting The Deal Through series is updated annually.
- Specific legal advice should always be sought from experienced local advisors.

For further information please contact Callum Campbell

Getting The Deal Through

Tel: +44 (0) 20 7908 1181

Fax: +44 (0) 20 7229 6910

Email: Callum.Campbell@LBResearch.com